PROJECTS

Programed a Pizza Ordering System using Python

Project Code: <https://bit.ly/3A5LDBq>

- Needed to make a program in python to simulate a pizza ordering system.
- Developed the program using functions, lists, if conditions, while loops and lots of error messages so the user cannot accidentally break the program.
- Program worked smoothly with about 250 lines of code and allowed the user to place an order for pizzas and printed out an invoice.

Case study on the Eating Habits of University and High School Students

- Conducted a statistical analysis with the help of a survey on 40 participants.
- Displayed the results in various charts and graphs to visualize our findings and drew conclusions from them.
